1.2 million plan Lowell St. reconstruction progresses

By SEAN DEVLIN

WILMINGTON - Progress was made on the $1.2 million plan to reconstruct Lowell Street Monday evening as the town's selectmen discussed details with the vice president of the consulting firm hired to study the project.

At this stage of the plan the town is seeking approval of the first 25 percent of the reconstruction design from the Massachusetts Highway Department. The project, which is expected to begin sometime early next year, will involve widening, resurfacing, and installing sidewalks along the Route 129-Lowell Street roadway from Main Street intersection up to Woburn Street.

According to Ko Ishikura of Green International Affiliates, Inc., the design calls for the widening of the road from its current 32-foot width to 36.1 feet. Although state standards require a width of 39 feet, Ishikura said that the town should request a waiver. The reason for the reduction of the standard width, he said, is due to the absence of sidewalks which would be constructed on both sides of the street.

"That can be done within the existing town layout line without taking any additional land from property owners," assured Ishikura.

In addition to the sidewalks, which would also be handicap accessible, the design calls for planting trees along the sides of Lowell Street. Ishikura said that this would be something that the town would have to request from the Highway Department, but doesn't foresee it to be a problem.

"We thought that the trees would mitigate the impact of the construction and add uniform landscape features," he said.

While the firm has planned to install a traffic light at the intersection of Main and Lowell streets, an additional light may be installed at the Cross Street intersection as well, said Ishikura.

As for the upcoming Lowell Street sewer project, Town Manager Michael Caira said that the town intends to run the two construction jobs tandem to each other.

Pole Problems

A group of Ballardvale Street residents expressed to the board their concerns regarding the placement of utility poles in their neighborhood for the development of an abutting townhouse complex.

Warren Fitzpatrick of Ballardvale Street said that the

Two arrested for drug paraphernalia

By FRANK J. AMATO

WILMINGTON - Wilmington police arrested two suspects for possession of hypodermic needles and syringes Monday night.

According to Deputy Police Chief Bernard Nally the incident began when the owner of a Middlesex Ave. house, who was not in the area, called his brother to have an intoxicated male removed from his home. The brother, was concerned about going to the house and called police.

When police arrived, with the brother they arrested Lorrie Kelly, 28, Wilmington, and Thomas Contarz, 34, of Londonderry, NH on the charges.

Wilmington Police Sergeant Robert Richter, then secured the house and obtained a search warrant for the premises.

About 4 hours later they searched the home and confiscated some 45 needles and syringes and other drug paraphernalia.

Bail was set at $2500 for each of the suspects, and they were arraigned in Woburn District Court Tuesday morning.

Bob Young candidate for West Intermediate principal

by ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Robert Young is one of four finalists bidding to become principal of the West Intermediate School. He is also a member of the School Committee, a fact that has raised questions.

The state Ethics Commission, Department of Education and Massachusetts Association of School Committees regulations permit Young to stay on the committee during the selection process. But, Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell believes Young should resign to simplify her job of choosing the principal.

O'Donnell was quoted in the Lowell Sun last week as stating,

Ethics Commission permits Young to stay on board

"From having had that experience already in Wilmington, it certainly relieves some of the basic stress involved. It makes for a somewhat difficult process to be in the position of evaluating a candidate when that person is your supervisor. It makes for a unique situation."

The only finalist from Wilmington, Young is presently an assistant principal at the East Middle School in Braintree and is a candidate to replace retiring West Intermediate Principal James Jordan.

Even though the School Committee hires the superintendent who hires the principal, Young is not in a conflict of interest as a candidate for the principal's position, according to the Ethics Commission. Problems would occur if he participated in the hiring process or if his selection benefited himself or an immediate family member.

Young could not be reached for comment.

O'Donnell, Director of Administration and Finance Bradford Jackson and Curriculum Coordinator Lore Nielsen interviewed the four finalists Monday at the West Intermediate School library. Each finalist was asked the same nine questions by O'Donnell during the interview. Nielsen stated that Young has not given her any indication that he will resign from the committee.

Jackson, himself, faced a similar situation in 1996. After becoming a finalist to succeed Peter Rock as the school department's business director, Jackson decided to resign as a School Committee member.

The interview committee is currently visiting each person at work. The candidates seeking the $70,000-per-year position include: Suzanne Garfield, an assistant principal in Salem; Robert Morrill, an assistant principal from Bellows Falls, Vt.; Daniel O'Connell, an assistant principal in Haverhill.

Young's professional history extends back to the 1970's when he taught at both the North and West Intermediate schools in Wilmington. As a member of the School Committee, Young has adamantly stressed the importance of implementing in the schools the new technology and software geared towards the modern curriculum. He also supports the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System (MCAS) testing that students in grades four, eight and 10 recently took in the beginning of May.

WILMINGTON - EMMA NOBILE of Glen Road was putting firefighter Gary Robichaud through his paces at the Kiwanis Bicycle Safety Rodeo on Saturday. A hundred or so youngsters came down for safety instruction, food and fun. Emma was at "Crazy Crossroads" with her mother Melissa. "Crazy Crossroads" is one of the three stations in the rodeo which teaches kids to stop, and look both ways. Two dangerous scenarios covered 90% of all bike vs. car accidents. (photo by Stu Neilson)

It's YOUR Money
by Joyce Brisbois

DEFERRED PAY? YES OR NO?

When executives and others defer pay, part of their salaries and bonuses are left with the company, often until after retirement. In the years between, the money grows untaxed.

But now the tax on capital gains is almost half the tax on ordinary income. Is deferring still a good idea, or should the worker take the money out and pay taxes now, owing less later on any gains? Fact is, deferral is still the better bet for most.

The special advantage is the use for investment of the money not paid in taxes. For every $100,000 deferred, the worker pays Medicare taxes on $1,450 now, leaving $98,550 to be invested. If the money were not deferred, taxes would run $41,050 and only $58,950 would be available for investment. Given 10 years or more of growth, the deferred pile would be more than 50 percent larger. Even paying high taxes on the whole package, the worker comes out ahead with deferral. Surprise: even the government gets more.

Check out your boss's offer. We'll help you work out the numbers at

Tewksbury public schools appreciate volunteers

by Christine L. McGrath, Ph.D.
Tewksbury

Superintendent of Schools
TEWKSBURY - Volunteers are the life blood of many successful organizations. The Tewksbury Public Schools have benefited from the efforts of many volunteers during the 1997-98 school year. These individuals give countless hours of their time and support the work of the school district across many areas.

Volunteers serve as members of the Parent Advisory Councils planning programs and raising funds to support the work of the teachers and the students. Other volunteers donate their time as members of the School improvement councils working with the principal and the faculty to develop and implement improvement plans for each school.

During this school year volunteers have supported the work of individual schools by assisting teachers with the preparation of classroom materials and supporting activities such as literacy nights, science fairs, book fairs and spaghetti suppers. They have organized fall and spring clean-up crews to beautify our school grounds and they have upgraded playground areas. Volunteers have served as chaperones for school dances, field trips and organizers and chaperones of the all night graduation party.

On a district wide basis volunteers support our work by organizing the Annual Children's Opportunity Fair, serving on the Health Education Committee, and the Net Day Committee. Many individuals volunteer their time through participation in athletic booster organizations, and the Hall of Fame, as friends to our music program and host families for international student exchanges. Some volunteers have organized as the CARE group; Citizens Actively Supporting Education. This group has brought a very successful Family Game Show Night and Spelling Bee to the district and funded many mini grants for the faculty.

This list represents a small sample of the many ways in which parents and community members have become involved and invested in the Tewksbury Public Schools. We are grateful for their time and effort and for supporting our commitment to providing a high quality education for our students.

Letters to the Editor

Child needs multiple organ transplant

Dear Editor:

I, Charles Belinski, am doing a non-profit fund raiser for Ronnie Fox, Jr. (my grandson) who is a 19 month old boy who was born with Short Gut Syndrome. He has been in and out of New England Medical Center (Floating Hospital) in Boston since birth.

Due to all the medications which Ronnie has been on, some of these medications have caused damage to other organs within him. As of now Little Ronnie and his parents were flown to Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh, he was placed in I.C.U. He has been placed on the waiting list for Multiple Organ Transplants (March '98). Throughout this whole ordeal Ronnie's mother had to quit her job so that she could receive medical training, (given by the hospital) to be acutely aware of Little Ronnie's rapidly changing medical conditions. Also, his father has taken a family medical leave of absence from his work to be with his child. Both parents must go through medical therapy while at Pittsburgh to deal with organ donor transplant surgery. Also during this situation his older sister (five years old) had to be taken out of kindergarten saying good-bye to her classmates and moved to another state to live.

As of right now the Fox family is waiting for the day in which they can all be together, happy, healthy and back in their own home.

I am asking for any contributions in which you and/or your company would be able to do at this time. If you wish a donation of cash, checks can be made out to the Ronnie Fox Jr. Fund c/o Family Bank, Tyngsboro, MA.

We are planning a fundraiser dance for the above individual on the 30th of May, at the Elks Club, Old Ferry Road, Lowell. We are in need of prizes for raffles and door prizes.

Again we thank you for your time and cooperation in this matter.

Thank you,
Charles Belinski,
Fund Coordinator

I never knew I had so many friends...

Dear Editor:

I wish to express my thanks for the many get well cards I received while in the hospital with a bad infection in my foot.

I never knew I had so many friends. I knew we folks hung together, but I never expected this kind of response. I wish to thank you all again for your get well wishes.

I will be back in circulation in two or three weeks. Thanks again for your concern. Good luck to all.

by Capt. Larz Neilson

WILMINGTON - Wilmington, Massachusetts happens to be a community that has had many residents of whom the townspeople may be proud. They were persons who served their town in a manner of which their friends long remember.

One of those persons was Harold E. Melzar, born in Charlestown on February 20, 1889. His father bought a home on what is now Nichols Street, in which Harold grew up for a few years. Later his father bought a three story home on Lake Street in Wilmington, a place which was always visible from Main Street, near Glen Road. There was a large lawn, between Lake Street and Silver Lake, which was Melzar land, and which enhanced their property.

Today there are several new homes in that lawn area, and the Melzar home is almost to be described as "just another home," except that the majesty of the home in which he grew up remains. It is a home of which his children and grandchildren may be proud.

Harold attended school in Wilmington and graduated from Wilmington High School - that school being a wooden structure which no longer survives. It was known in its last days as the "Center School," and the new (now old) high school was constructed nearby.

Later he attended the Mechanics Art School in Boston and became a clerk for the Eastern Steamship Company.

That company ran a line of passenger ships to Nova Scotia and down Long Island Sound to New York City. The ships departed from Boston every evening about eight o'clock. To the passengers it was a romantic voyage, as it was to those who worked for that company. The company discontinued service about 1940.

Company of New Hampshire. Three quarters of a century ago that company was prominent in the world of cotton manufacturing.

He became a prominent person in the New England financial world of three quarters of a century ago and a director and secretary of the Amoskeag Company of New Hampshire. If he were asked as to the kind of work he did he had a simple answer - he was a treasurer.

Harold Melzar, living in Wilmington, and overlooking Silver Lake had a nice place in which to live. He married a young lady known as Edna Frances McKusick. He began to be active in local sports even before his marriage.

About 1902 nine young men, seven from Wilmington and two from East Billerica formed a baseball team - the Silver Lake Baseball Team. They acquired ground from the Boston Ice Company, which owned about 30 or 40 acres of land near Silver Lake.

The Silver Lake Team defeated every team it met, for about five or six years. It traveled all over Massachusetts by street car.

Their baseball diamond was off Cottage Street, the site now has a number of private homes, but before the Silver Lake Team was finished they had made an area in which they were never defeated.

Harold Melzar was shortstop. His younger brother also became a shortstop, and neither of the brothers failed, at a critical moment. Their play grew to become a slogan.

There is always a Melzar at shortstop!

"Thanks" '98 style from the Good Guy

Dear Editor:

On the evening of May 8, I was selected as the "Good Guy" for 1998. I was shocked to think I was even considered for this worthy award.

As the evening progressed and various speakers spoke on my behalf, it was finally my turn to speak.

I did, in some fashion thank all who supported me, my life, but I wanted to say much more. I wanted to say - Good evening friends: As you can see I am a little nervous, but as I look out into this audience, I wonder why. I see only friendly faces, people whom I respect, admire and love.

My priest, elected officials, friends and family have come to say - job well done!

To all, I say thank you. My friends for their friendship, my family for love and guidance. To my daughter, Michelle, granddaughter Emily, endless love.

If I am a good anything it's because of my wife Doris, my best friend. Doris guides me through life constantly reminding me how to conduct myself in a Christian manner.

So it is with great pride I accept this award, but on behalf of all the Good Guys and Gals who pass through life performing countless good deeds for others and do not get recognized.

Those who, for years nurture and care for their elderly parents - a young single mother lovingly raising her family - those special parents who, for years, care for those with special needs.

Someone recently said there is a lack of heroes today. I say - look around - they're everywhere. Those are the good guys.

Thank you,
Bill Ross

When Harold started working it was to take the train from the old Silver Lake Railroad Station near Silver Lake. About 80 to 100 persons would board that train every morning, and be in Boston 19 minutes later!

There was no necessity in those days for the auto races of Route 93. There was no radio conversation about the trains travel. It was a nice way to get to Boston, to work, in 19 minutes!

Wilmington and South Tewksbury residents were able to walk around Silver Lake in about 15 minutes, in those days. A pleasant way to get to Boston in the morning!

The Eastern Steamship lines were owned by a family known as the Domaine Family, later called the Domaine Trust.

Harold became a director of the Domaine Trust, and he became a secretary of the Amoskeag poles, which are being located by Bell Atlantic, can be seen from his home, while the residents of the new development can catch sight of shrubs and trees.

"That neighborhood is going to be nice, but ours is nice too. We'd like to keep it that way," said Fitzpatrick.

In response to the neighbors' concerns, a Bell Atlantic representative agreed to communicate further with residents of the neighborhood and approval for a pole location on the street has been tabled until more resident input has been

WCTV Update

Also, WCTV Executive Director Ruth Kennedy updated the board on several of the projects that are underway at the local cable station, including a scholarship fund that has been established for two Wilmington High School seniors. According to Kennedy, the $500 scholarships were made possible through the sale of videotapes of the station's programs.

Another project that is currently enjoying success is the Video Explorers Club which allows the town's students to participate in hands-on video production courses after school with some of the station's staff.

"If it wasn't for the volunteers in the community out with the cameras, we'd have nothing to show," said Kennedy. "They deserve the utmost thanks."

Town Counsel

During a later segment of Monday's meeting, sparks flew when the board voted to reappoint Town Counsel Alan Altman to a one-year term. Receiving a vote of 4-1, Altman retained his position, however, Selectman James Rooney voiced opposition to the approval saying that he wished to form a subcommittee for the purpose of examining the attorney's contract.

"I think [the contract] should be negotiated. I think it should be opened up and looked at," said Rooney.

According to Rooney, Altman's salary from the town is approximately $77,500, with an additional $15,000 salary from the town's Water Department. The bone of contention for Rooney remained in the three-percent pay increase Altman is eligible for along with other town employees. The increase, Rooney said, should be negotiated.

"The issue is, do we give him an automatic pay raise? The town manager, we negotiated with him for a pay raise. Where is it in the books that he automatically gets a pay raise?" said Rooney.

In response to Rooney's questions Caira said that the "recommendation for the salary was made public in January."

In a telephone interview later, Rooney reiterated his thoughts on the issue saying that like Caira's salary, Altman's should be scrutinized and negotiated as well.

While Rooney said that he doesn't doubt Altman's qualifications for the job, he did question the return of Altman to the town counsel position after retiring. According to Rooney, Altman was reappointed the year following his departure, this time with the firm of Altman and Altman, and as a town employee is eligible for retirement benefits.

"How did he become a retired employee of the town? He's now collecting in excess of $32,000 to $33,000 a year in retirement. On top of that he gets the benefits that go with it. I don't think it's right," he said.

As for the additional $15,000 salary that, according to Rooney, Altman receives from the Water Department, he said that the figure should be included within the $77,500 salary.

"It's something that should be negotiated," he said. "That's something that's up to the selectmen to decide."

When asked what course of action he would take after being outvoted, Rooney who has consistently voted against Altman's appointment replied, "I don't have much choice in the matter. I'll wait until next year."

Rick Goldin to present, "I like to read"

WILMINGTON - Tuesday, May 26, at 7 p.m., children's songwriter, entertainer and recording artist Rick Goldin will present his "I Like to Read" music and puppet show. Songs about books, reading and libraries will be featured and the program will include appearances by Rick's handmade animal puppets Henry the Horse, Quackelberry Duck, and others. It will be a lively and participatory experience for preschool children ages two and a half to five.

Golden, who performs over 200 children's shows a year, started performing for children in 1986 when he worked as a preschool teacher. He also has been writing and performing contemporary folk music for adults for over 25 years. Albums which he had recorded to date include the contemporary folk album November Son, and children's albums Family Concert Live and I Like to Read.

Free tickets will be made available on Thursday, May 14 and may be reserved by calling the Children's Room at 658-2967.

This is yet another program made possible through the "Community Partnerships for Children" grant funded by the Massachusetts Department for Education. Other programs in this series for preschoolers and their families are scheduled to take place June 13, 18 and 30.

Eyes on Owls

Saturday, May 2, the Children's Room had a successful live owl program for preschoolers. Naturalist Marcia Wilson of "Eyes on Owls" introduced the group of 114 to four live owls: two screech owls, a barred owl, and a great horned owl. She answered many questions and was able to share her expertise on that subject. Ms. Wilson also entertained the audience with a hooting lesson and the reading of Owl Moon by Jane Yolen and Owl Babies by Martin Waddell. Both books are available in the Children's Room.

Bookends

Bookends met Thursday, May 7 to discuss Deep End of the Ocean by Jacquelyn Mitchard. Six members gave this book a thumbs up and only two gave it a thumbs down. Bookends' next title to be discussed in June is Shipping News by E. Annie Proulx. Copies are available at the library.

All Bookends members and those who love books will want to take a look at a new quarterly publication Reverberations, a news journal of the Association of Book Group Readers and Leaders. Recommendations on good books for discussion are included in this newsletter.

Community volunteers Helping to "Stamp out hunger"

By ERIC BRASSIL

WILMINGTON - Mother Teresa once noted that "we ourselves feel that what we are doing is just a drop in the ocean. I think the ocean would be less because of that missing drop." This drop, trickling down into society's oceans is what separates the greedy, the lethargic, and the philanthropists. This spirit of giving was certainly present during Saturday's annual "Help Stamp Out Hunger" food drive.

Each year, the National Association of Letter Carriers, joins the United Parcel Service, Campbell Soup, and local United Way organizations to conduct the largest national movement for food donations. Millions of canned goods and supplies are picked up and distributed by a fleet of mail trucks; providing needy families with enough nourishment and care to last through the humid summer months. Millions of Americans help to feed the disadvantaged, by leaving canned goods at their mailboxes.

The Wilmington food surge began at about 12 PM and ended with the last of 19 drop-offs approximately four hours later. The results were very promising and as Community Fund member Bob DiPalma explains "the community turned out as they always do." Soups, vegetables, cereals, and other items accumulated on the floor of the small Swain School room. Volunteers were forced to stack box upon box in the outer hallway when shelves within the Food Pantry began to bend and threaten collapse. This event, the Saint Thomas' Church mission, and the Wilmington Band collections provide most of the needed items in the Wilmington Commissary throughout the year.

The Food Pantry is only one denomination of the valuable efforts undertaken by the Community Fund. The Fund organizes and maintains all drives and community donations. On the second and fourth Wednesday of every month, volunteers help to distribute collected goods to less fortunate families. However, as Wilmington resident and local educator Carol King remarks, "the Community Fund is always looking for help; not only for special food drives." Each and every item donated, and each and every hour spent, truly creates both a neighborly atmosphere and a healthy community; because, as Mrs. King adds, "community service is an important part of living in Wilmington."

Several organizations often contribute to the philanthropic mood of the Community Fund. On Saturday, a group of ten National Honor Society members lent a helping hand. This group of seniors Michelle Cronin, Matt Hackett, Amanda Packard, Megan Falzone, Kristen Flynn, Rebecca Rogers, Dave Ward, Scott Swiezynski, and juniors Chris Cassidy and Eric Brassil were "instrumental in getting goods assorted and put away" (C. King). Volunteers laughed and cried as the food floodgates were opened and the trucks kept piling in, exclaiming "we just love to help." Newly inducted NHS member Chris Cassidy reflects the tone of the group, explaining "I was happy to give up two hours of my time if it meant that people would be provided with needed food." Tasks were completed with enthusiasm and zeal, as each volunteer was confident his efforts would help at least one person. All of the members left feeling the NHS pledge burning inside of them, and Wilmington High School's emphasis on charity well served.

As the mounds of paper and plastic bags emptied and the day came to a close, hundreds of goods collected on the floor in the Swain School. The generosity of the public, the Post Office, and the letter carriers will fulfill the Food Pantry's needs beyond the summer. Both community volunteers and contributors have something to be proud of—they have turned a drop into an ocean.

WHS Clubs call it a year with their final events

by COLLEEN MURPHY

WILMINGTON - This is the time of the year when school for everyone begins to wind down. Students begin to review for finals and clubs and activities begin to end for the year. The clubs and activities at Wilmington High School have reached the home stretch for the year. They are planning their last activities for this year, as well as new ones for next year.

The Foreign Language Club this year has been a total success. The club has just recently seen a demonstration on how to make pizza. They also just recently had a student teach them Irish step dancing. The club is now preparing for its last activity of the year. The members of the club will each take in some ethnic food that they have made to share with the rest of the club.

The Medical Careers Club has just recently sponsored a blood drive with the senior class. The blood drive was an absolute success. Many students as well as members of the community donated blood and their time. The Medical Careers club is also working hard on fundraisers as well as ideas for upcoming field trips.

The Debate team has been working hard for a couple of weeks preparing for its first debate with Ashton High School. The team will be debating such topics as Freedom of the Press, Euthanasia and Violence on TV. The debate team will have its first debate Thursday, May 14 at Ashton High School. This is the first time in history Wilmington High School has had a debate team.

The Robotics club is working hard to prepare for upcoming fundraisers. They are hoping that they can hold a fundraising night at a local Burger King or McDonalds. The fundraisers will be used to buy tools to create robots, and upcoming projects.

The Wildcat News staff is currently putting together its second to last issue of the year. They are also working on and collecting articles for the last issue. Eric Brassil and Ben DeGennaro are working hard to meet these deadlines along with the rest of the staff.

DECA recently had two students to go the National DECA competition in Colorado. W.A. Shea Marden, and Scott Swiezynski both participated in the national competition. Both received awards for excellence in their categories.

Each class is also preparing for its final activities of the year. After having a successful Freshman Fling and Sophomore Semi, the Freshman Class officers and Sophomore Class officers are working on fundraisers and activities for next year. The Junior Class officers are preparing for the upcoming Junior Prom which will be held on May 29. The Senior Class officers are working to prepare for the Senior Prom, the Senior Lockin, the Senior Banquet and graduation.

The clubs contribute a lot to Wilmington High School. This year has been a very successful year for clubs and activities. I am confident that next year will be equally, if not more successful.

Medical scholarship available

Correction

In last week's article entitled "National Honor Society inducts 30," a new junior inductee was left off the list. Shaun Neville was inducted on Tuesday, May 6th. We apologize for any inconvenience.

Kenneth Gloss likes to pick up a good old book on occasion, and he has had the occasion often. He will be in Wilmington on June 11 to lecture on old books at the Wilmington Memorial Library.

Old and rare books lecture at Wilmington library

WILMINGTON - Might there be treasures in your attic in the form of valuable old and rare books? One way to find out would be to attend The Friends of Wilmington Memorial Library sponsored lecture by nationally known Kenneth Gloss, proprietor of the Brattle Book Shop in Boston, who will speak at the free and open lecture to be held June 11, in the library, 175 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington.

Other presentations by the recently formed Friends include "Times Gone By, and Apple Pie" and a program by noted local author Gary Goshgarian.

Mr. Gloss' talk is entitled, "Treasures in Your Attic: Old and Rare Books." New England homes are treasure troves for old and rare books that have increased in value over the years," says Gloss, "and we're inviting those attending to bring any volumes they want to know about to the lecture for a free verbal appraisal."

In addition to an encyclopedic knowledge gained through a lifetime devoted to books, Gloss brings a vast repertoire of stories and amusing bits of trivia that delight audiences. One of his hints to potential booksellers is that they give the volumes a healthy shake and leaf through them in case a valuable manuscript, letter, or valuable piece of memorabilia is in the dust jacket, binding, or between pages.

The Brattle Book Shop is the successor to America's oldest continuously operating antiquarian book store. Kenneth Gloss succeeded his later father, George Gloss, a well known figure both in Boston and in national antiquarian circles.

Kenneth Gloss had worked in the store since childhood and elected to go into the book business rather than pursue a doctorate in chemistry. He became the sole proprietor upon his father's death several years ago. "I found that books were in my blood and that I would never be really happy if I abandoned the business."

Kenneth Gloss is a member and past president of the New England Antiquarian Booksellers Association of America, the Bostonian Society and the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Antiquarian Booksellers. He serves as a member of the advisory board of the U.S.S. Constitution Museum and was a member of the advisory committee of the Boston Public Library. He is a recipient of The Historic Neighborhoods Foundation award for making a definitive contribution to the design and social heritage of Boston and recently was honored by the Brookline Preservation Commission for his donation of the original plans of the famous Larz Anderson estate.

The Brattle Book Shop is also proud to have been a contributor to the WGBH Annual Auction each and every year that the station has held its fund drive.

Gloss will bring to the lecture several examples of interesting books, magazines and ephemera from the store's private collection, such as a 1912 World Series scorecard and examples of old Life Magazines. (He owns a complete set.)

Following the lecture and question and answer session Gloss will give free verbal appraisals of those books and items that people take with them or will do so at anytime at his 9 West Street emporium in Boston.

The Friends of the Library works closely with the professional staff of the Wilmington Memorial Library and library trustees to enhance and provide volunteer support for library programs. For information about the June 11 program call Karen Campbell, president of the Friends of the Library at 988-9264.

UPDATE AN OUTDATED BATH with the Siena™ whirlpool bath from Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath.

Update an Outdated Bath

If your bathroom is starting to show its age, be assured of one thing: It will look even older next year. But, take comfort in knowing that not every bathroom requires full-scale renovation. Simple ideas can spruce up a bathroom and give it a sophisticated new look.

From the company full of bright bathroom ideas, Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath has found a way to give homeowners a luxurious, yet easy, bathroom update with the Siena™ whirlpool bath. Measuring 60 inches long by 32 inches wide by 20 inches high, the Siena easily replaces standard five-foot bathtubs.

To treat the bather to a relaxing water massage, Jacuzzi incorporates four whirlpool jets. Strategically positioned within the bath, these patented jets massage along the bather's body for the ultimate in hydrotherapy. Both the direction of the jets and volume of water may be adjusted, providing a fully customized bathing experience.

Like all Jacuzzi-brand products, the Siena has been built for the highest levels of safety, practicality and comfort. The interior of the bath contains a non-slip surface, guaranteeing a safe step into and out of the tub. The bowed exterior not only enhances the product's beauty, but also provides a ledge for bathing items or bathside grooming. Moreover, an optional cushioned headrest is available for additional relaxation. Facilitating installation and service access, the unit comes standard with a front panel. The product is available in a full range of Designer Collection colors.

First Aid For Wood Finishes

(NAPS)—Q. My mother used to put "polish the furniture" on my chores list every week when I was growing up. I'm lucky if I get around to it twice a year these days. What's the rule of thumb to go by for how often is too often?

A. Here's my rule of thumb. If you use a piece of wooden furniture on a daily basis, say a kitchen table, wood cabinets or a coffee table in the TV room, wipe it down with a damp—not wet—cloth and polish the piece on a weekly basis.

If it's a decorative piece of furniture that isn't touched or sat upon often, my best advice is polish about four times a year—or to make it easier, polish with the seasons. Tie it into major holidays: Easter or Passover, Fourth of July, Halloween and the winter holidays.

Use a protective cream polish like Weiman Furniture Cream, which will allow the wood to breathe as the humidity in the house changes.

For more rules of thumb on polishing, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to P.O. Box 9569, Downers Grove, IL 60515, for a free brochure on caring for fine wood furniture.

Q. You always hear about wax build-up on furniture. How can you tell if your furniture has a wax build-up and how do you get rid of it?

A. Waxy yellow build-up sounds like the complaint of 1950s housewives. But it can definitely compromise the beauty of your wood furniture. Built-up wax can dull the finish of woods and make them more susceptible to fingerprinting and dirt collection. Wood soaps dissolve this wax, opening up the pores of the wood for deep cleaning and protection. A mild, low-alkaline wood soap, like one made by Weiman, will unclog wood pores and allow for deeper protection of the wood and your finish will have a high-quality polish.

Think of furniture treatments like cosmetics. A wood soap is a cleanser, a cream polish is a mois-

LAWN & GARDEN TIPS

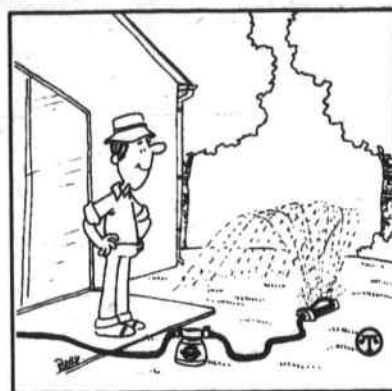

Tending To Those Busy Spring Gardening Chores

(NAPS)—Just when a gardener would like to sit back and enjoy a cold drink on the patio or spend a day at the lake, the press of lawn and garden tasks seems to hit its peak. Weeds threaten to crowd out the plants, while pests and diseases give rise to doubts as to their very survival. In a season deficient in rainfall, wilting plants demand irrigation. Starving plants must be fed if they are to live up to their promise.

Never fear, however, there are simple and easy ways to attack all these problems, so that you have plenty of time to relax and enjoy the fruits of your labors.

Yes, you can pull weeds and cart them off to the compost pile, but that takes time and can be hard on your back. It makes more sense to apply mulch to smother the weeds and eliminate most of the backwork. For the flower border or vegetable garden, organic mulch such as partially composted leaves, buckwheat hulls or straw will provide control and can be worked into the ground at the end of the season to improve the soil. Around trees and shrubs where permanence is desired, use wood chips, pine bark or gravel. A plastic or fabric weed barrier beneath the mulch will prevent persistent weeds from pushing their way through the mulch.

Many chemicals are available for both pest and disease control, however, if your concern for the environment dictates that you avoid these materials or at least reserve them for the most stubborn situations, consider less stringent means such as hand-picking or washing insects off the plants with the garden hose. Infected leaves or an entire plant should be destroyed to prevent the spread of disease to healthy plants. Biological controls such as the release of friendly predatory insects or an application of Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterium that only affects insects, are among the increasing number of safe controls available.

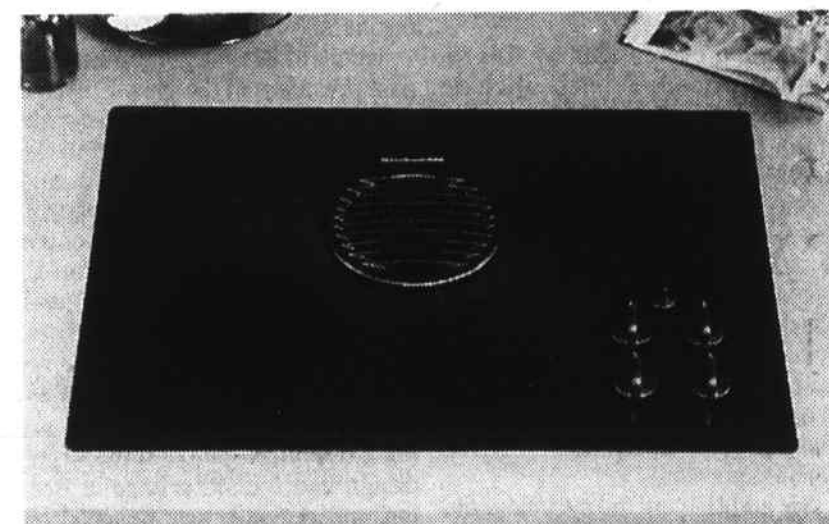

Most garden plants require at least an inch of water each week. When rainfall is deficient, make up the difference by irrigating. Where the water supply is limited, an inexpensive drip irrigation system can be installed to apply a minimal amount of water where it will do the most good. Mulch applied to control weeds will also conserve moisture by minimizing evaporation from the soil surface.

Plants do best when provided with a uniform supply of nutrients throughout their growing period. Miracle-Gro All-Purpose Plant Food is ideal for all plants. For plants with special needs, use Miracid, Miracle-Gro for Tomatoes, Miracle-Gro for Roses or Miracle-Gro Patio Plant Food. All are water-soluble and are rapidly absorbed. When applied as directed, your plants will be vigorous and productive rather than starved and stunted.

By using the new Miracle-Gro No-Clog 4 in 1 Feeder, plants can be both watered and fed at the same time, a real time-saver. Just attach your garden hose to the 4 in 1 feeder, hook up your lawn sprinkler, and turn on the water. It's so easy; you'll wonder why no one thought of this before. Incidentally, you can use this great device in many ways, all designed to save you work and time while helping you achieve a beautiful, healthy garden.

With this easy-gardening approach, you can have both vigorous, productive plants and the time to enjoy them.

New Ceramic Surface Downdraft Cooktops

The new cooktops are available in black, white and almond versions with color-coordinated control knobs.

Window Shopping? A Little Research Goes A Long Way

Whether constructing a new home or remodeling an older residence, one of the decisions a homeowner ultimately faces involves the selection of windows. There are many styles and manufacturers from which to choose, each offering a variety of construction features. To some extent, personal style and aesthetics will drive the decision. Price and energy efficiency also are considerations. While you may be tempted to defer to the recommendations of your builder or remodeler there are several questions every consumer should ask before making any window buying decision.

Is The Manufacturer Certified?

A sure sign of a well-constructed, quality unit is the certification label either etched in the glass or printed on the spacers between the lites of glass.

Windows can earn one of three designations — C, CB or CBA — depending on how they perform in the tests. The CBA level is the highest rating and means that a window has passed through three levels of simulated weatherization testing without showing signs of condensation or fogging.

Does The Window Manufacturer Offer A Warranty?

A well-constructed, dual pane unit should last a minimum of 10 years. However, many manufacturers offer only a one-year warranty.

If you are considering purchasing a dual pane, sealed window unit, ask your contractor about the manufacturer's warranty that accompanies the window. If the window system fails in five years, causing excessive drafts or allowing condensation to form between the panes, will the manufacturer replace it?

Also, inquire as to whether any of the window components are covered. For instance, Tremco, the manufacturer of the insulating glass edge spacer, Swiggle® Seal, offers window manufacturers a warranty on their product.

What Is The U-Value Of The Window?

Window manufacturers use U-values to measure thermal performance. U-values measure heat transfer. They describe the overall thermal performance of a window unit, taking into account such aspects of the unit's construction as window type, frame material, glass coatings and spacer materials. When determining a window's energy-efficiency, the lower the U-value, the better. A U-value of .40 is considered excellent; .60 is good;

Sample windows and cross sections can help homeowners learn more about the many new features available in windows today.

while .80 or higher indicates poor thermal performance.

Is The Window Constructed With Conventional Or Warm-edge Spacers?

Dual and triple pane windows are constructed with edge spacers designed to reduce heat loss around the windows' edges. The materials used to construct these edge spacers can mean the difference between a drafty window edge and one that is well insulated against the cold.

Some window manufacturers use conventional, tubular aluminum spacers filled with desiccant, a moisture-absorbing material that aids in preventing condensation from building up between the panes. However, because metal conducts heat, aluminum spacers diminish the insulation value of a window, resulting in a higher U-value.

Other manufacturers have abandoned aluminum spacers in favor of warm-edge spacers. However, not all warm edge seals perform identically. A window constructed with a warm-edge spacer such as Swiggle Seal will be 9 degrees warmer and reduce condensation by up to 80 percent than an identical window constructed with an aluminum spacer.

Does The Window Have A Low-Emissivity (Low-E) Glass?

Regular, uncoated glass allows heat to escape from your home in winter, and in summer, allows heat to flow from the hot outdoors into your air-conditioned rooms. To guard against this phenomenon, some window manufacturers use low emissivity — or low-E — coatings on one pane. Low-E coatings block the long-wave infrared radiation that can account for as much as 60 percent of a window's heat loss. They also protect indoor furnishings from sun damage.

Many window manufacturers offer a variety of low-E coatings, some of which are designed specifically for warmer climates or southern exposures, and some of which are more effective in cold climates. Dark visible coatings keep solar energy out, which is good in warm climates, but may reduce energy savings in colder regions.

Windows are an important architectural element of your home. They affect not only how your house looks from the outside, but also how it feels inside. With energy efficiency playing an increasingly prominent role in how we live and what products we use, be sure to give careful consideration to the thermal performance of the windows you select. It makes sense to ask your contractor for recommendations. But a little homework of your own will ensure that your contractor understands your goals — and you end up with the most appropriate window selection for your construction or remodeling project.

Protect Your Home From Summer Allergies

Is your home ready for another heat wave like last summer? August was 7 degrees above normal for some major cities. Hot weather doesn't just put a strain on your air conditioner; it also increases your need for a whole-house air cleaner to defend your nose against the attack of pollen.

The hot, dry weather that much of the country experienced in the summer of 1995 was ideal for ragweed, according to Linda Bleimehl of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology. "Those are the conditions in which ragweed thrives. Usually ragweed bothers more people than normal on hot and windy days."

Since ragweed pollen can travel for up to 400 miles in the wind, there is not much anyone can do to avoid outdoor exposure, but you can make your home a clean-air sanctuary. To reduce your exposure to pollen, most experts recommend practicing an avoidance strategy. Among the common recommendations:

- Keep your house closed up as much as possible;
- Limit outdoor activities, especially during the morning;
- Shower before going to bed;
- Brush pets frequently outside;
- Use a whole-house, high-efficiency air cleaner.

A whole-house cleaner installed on a home's central heating and cooling system is an excellent way to clean all of the air that moves through the system.

They differ from the do-it-yourself hardware-store variety of filters, because high-efficiency media air cleaners use specially engineered fibers to trap up to 98 percent of airborne irritants as small as 1/2000 of an inch. That includes pollen and mold spores, as well as microscopic particles so small that they go right through ordinary fiberglass or polyester panel filters.

High-efficiency media air cleaners work effectively for up to two years before the media need changing, because they use a deep-pleated design that greatly expands their surface area and dust-catching ability. Space-Guard®, by the maker of Aprilaire® humidifiers, is only about 2 feet square, but it is a full 6 inches thick and contains more than 78 square feet of pleated, dust-trapping media. That's enough to cover one wall of a small room with 34 20-inch-by-20-inch filters.

If you were one of the thousands of people who were convinced by last year's heat wave to buy or replace an air conditioner before this summer, now is also the best time to get a whole-house air cleaner.

"Holy Spirit you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. Thumbs up for local runner

Well, a big congratulations goes out to a dear old friend of mine who I have known all of my life, Jennifer Caira. Apparently, Jen ran in the Boston Marathon and I failed to mention her. But she didn't have a number on, so I actually have a legitimate excuse. In either case, a big congratulations goes out to her especially doing it for the first time and finishing it.

Wilmington High graduate Matt McManus of '92 shown here pitching for Northeastern University from a year ago, is now a player/coach for a team in Holland.

Former WHS pitcher

McManus continues playing days in Europe

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Ever since his little league days, Matt McManus has not only been a very competitive athlete, but he has always had that certain love for the game that takes people so far.

Well, for the 24-year-old native, it has taken him to Europe - playing ball in Haarlem, Holland. After thinking his pitching days were over, McManus has found a new life, as he flew for eight hours just outside of Amsterdam to play the simple game of baseball, for a short six-month stay.

Arriving in Haarlem on March 31st, McManus was selected by a scout to be a player/coach for an organization called DSS. Every year this organization brings one American over for the duty, this time it was the former Northeastern University right-handed power pitcher, who graduated just a year ago who got the call.

Life is good for McManus right now. He is loving his new experience.

"I honestly thought my baseball career was over," he said in an e-mail interview over American On-Line. "This came along and I decided I'd go against my usual ways, be spontaneous, and take advantage of the opportunity."

"Heck, [if I didn't leave the United States] I would be working at a job 50 hours a week, getting up every morning at 6:30 am, and playing in the Inter-City [Baseball] League. Instead, I'm getting up at 10:00 am, going to the gym, then the beach, then the stadium and getting paid for it."

"Believe me, I'm very lucky to be where I am, and I understand this. This is probably the end of the line of my baseball career. But, I'm very fortunate to have had the opportunity to see many parts of the

Being at the right place

Last year at this time, McManus was helping Northeastern in the Division II NCAA Baseball Tournament. The team had a very successful season and although McManus wasn't the team's number one pitcher, he did throw a lot of innings, getting several big wins and he was a part of a team which brought home an American East Championship as well as being a NCAA Participant - that doesn't happen often.

He did all of that with basically with one eye. About two years prior to that, he took a baseball in his left eye while warming up in the bullpen for a start. It took a while for McManus to get back in the groove

Wilson takes up long challenge

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Maybe 39-year-old Wilmington native Tim Wilson has listened to the famous song by The Proclaimers, "If I Could Walk (well bike in his case) 500 miles," or perhaps he is trying to relive his youth. I

Or just maybe, Tim is one of those special guys that we seldom come across. A special guy who would take a week off from his job to bicycle for a seven-day, 500 mile journey through four states. He is doing all of this trying to help get a cure for the American Diabetes Association. His second ride of this kind, will embark on July 11-17.

Although he did the same New England Classic route this time a year ago, Wilson has never regretted doing any of it, whether in Hurricane Bertha conditions, pouring rain conditions or even going door-to-door trying to top the $2,000 he raised for the association last year.

"I want to go back and tell those people who do give money that I rode every single mile. You ride everyday, no matter what. Sometimes you don't want to do it, but the other people along really help you and then you start challenging yourself."

"It's amazing how many people have Diabetes. When I go around to collect, so many people say who they have a relative or a friend who has it. Sixteen million people have it in the United States and I have learned a lot about it since I picked up a pamphlet a few years ago. They are learning a lot more about it and they are going to find a cure

The pamphlet he referred to was one he picked up about six years ago for a one-day bike challenge called the Tour De Cure, to help the ADA. He did that, liking it a lot, meeting a lot of new people and the next three years he found himself doing the New England Sampler, a two-day shortened ride of what he will be encountering come two-months from now. Then came last year where he did the Classic for the entire seven days.

The trip starts in Framingham, Mass., on the first day with the last stop at Durham, New Hampshire at UNH College some 74.6 miles away

Should seniors ride the bench for talented underclassmen

BY JESSICA MARTIN
Sports Correspondent

It was recently brought to my attention that yet another aspect of high school sports is being called into question. The practice of allowing seniors "automatic" elevation to the varsity team is now being labeled as "unfair" by certain underclassmen who obviously feel that they have the right to be on the varsity teams.

A lot of things in life are unfair. Allowing seniors, who have dedicated their time since freshmen, to play varsity their last year as a high school athlete is not. If a student shows that he or she has worked hard for three years during practices and games, then why shouldn't he or she be allowed to play varsity as a senior? Why shouldn't hard work and perseverance be rewarded?

The problem is that we've put so much emphasis on winning and the individualistic aspects of sports that the team part of it is becoming obsolete. In today's world, sports figures are measured by their individual performances and not their contributions to the team. Take baseball for example, players like Ken Griffey Jr., Mo Vaughn, and Albert Belle, are hailed as great athletes because they hit a phenomenal amount of home runs and have high slugging percentages. These guys aren't paid millions because they're team players, they're paid to excel as individuals.

Let's face facts here; the vast majority of high school athletes aren't going into the NHL, the NBA, or MLB. In fact, two in recent history from Wilmington have, Mike Esposito in football and now Jason Bere who is currently pitching for the Chicago White Sox. Sports are supposed to be something fun that an athlete enjoys doing. Team sports offer kids a chance to play together, achieve together, and win together. Unfortunately, these "team" sports are turning into "make-me-look-good-contests". Athletes strive to be the best, to win the most attention while the idea of teamwork is abandoned.

Letting athletes, who may not be the most talented on the team, play varsity as seniors is an example of what a team is. A player does for his team as his team does for him. If an athlete is willing to sacrifice his or her free time every afternoon to play a sport than why shouldn't he or she be rewarded in the end? If you're willing to play for a team for three years, working hard at practice and supporting your team during a game, you've obviously demonstrated your ability as a team player and earned your spot on a team.

Underclassmen should put themselves in the place of these seniors who have given their time for three years and realize the commitment these athletes have made. A team isn't made of the most talented players, but players who give their best all the time and are willing to work sometimes sacrificing individual goals for the good of the team.

Sports Opinion

Kudos to Middlesex League

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Two weeks ago, I penned an article on my thoughts on the Reading-Woburn track meet that was decided by a controversial call. In case you missed it, Reading's 27-year long, league undefeated streak was ended when one of its runners put up his index finger on his way to winning his two-mile race. That was called taunting, therefore Reading lost.

However, in round two, the case was appealed and Reading won, so the streak is intact. I did say in my article, that there was no way that the MIAA would turn the decision around. So, I'm right and wrong. I'm right because it wasn't the MIAA who did this, rather it was the Middlesex League who did it.

Why? Reading's Head Coach Hal Croft brought in still pictures of his runner raising his index finger on the next to the last race, and one of a Woburn runner doing the same, one race later in the 4x400 relay race - just minutes after the original call was made against Reading, disqualifying the runner from the race. What happened to the Woburn runner? Absolutely nothing.

So, Croft brought those two pictures in and the panel of Middlesex League Athletic Directors heard and ruled on the case in favor of Croft, Mike Connelly the Reading runner, Reading and its 27-year streak. Talk about a shocker.

OK. I was wrong, because I didn't know appeals worked that way. I thought they went right to the MIAA, but then again why would it, that would actually mean they would have to do something?

I give a big pat on the back to that panel who over-ruled this very controversial call which has had the entire state talking - in newspapers, on television and just around town - any town. It was a farce and it's a shame that it happened in the first place.

I've heard that Hal Croft is not the most popular coach, for me I have no idea. I have never met the man. If I had to put two and two together, perhaps that call was made because of Croft's reputation and the Woburn coach giving the track official at the meet an earful (I wasn't there, I'm going by several very good sources on that one). Did Croft deserve it? Maybe. Did Mike Connelly - said to be a terrific kid who would have never of done that with the intent of embarrassment - deserve what he got for almost two weeks? Absolutely not.

Again, it's a shame that it happened, but kudos to the Middlesex League Athletic Directors who did the right thing. They got together, talked about it, met with everyone involved and made the proper decision.

Gee what a difference it makes when people actually know what they are doing and they do it with class and guts!

Cosman steps down from cheerleading post

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the past 15 years, Sally Cosman has been seen instructing a team of cheerleaders whether in a nice and cozy gym or wrapped up in a blanket on a cold and wet Saturday afternoon.

She has done a lot more than just instruct. She has always had a smile on her face, always helping these girls and always acting as a mother figure to them. She has done it no matter the circumstances, snow, sleet, pouring rain, etc. She has done a tremendous amount of work with the cheerleaders helping the spirit of the school, especially these last few years when it was so desperately needed.

However, just recently, Cosman resigned from being the Wilmington High girls football and basketball cheerleading coach, where she has coached since 1983.

"It was a very difficult decision," she said. "I've done it for 15 years now and it's time to move on and do other things. I want to spend more time with my family. But I enjoyed it immensely. I just hope that the focus doesn't get lost in cheering and it's not all concerned with competitions."

Cosman was a cheerleader herself at WHS. Then in the early 80's, she volunteered helping then football cheerleading coach Julie Briggs. At the same time she became the basketball cheerleading coach, taking over for Briggs shortly thereafter.

"It's been a wonderful experience. There were a lot of great football teams and coaches who I have worked with," she said. "I will really miss the girls. But I will see them in school everyday so I can still keep tabs on them. I'm so proud of all of them, they are all such wonderful young ladies. A lot of them have grown into doctors and engineers and have done so many great things with their lives.

"The [Wilmington] Athletic Department has always treated the cheerleaders very well and like a sport, not like some other towns. Now it's time for someone new and young to come in and carry on the tradition."

The program certainly will not be the same without Sally Cosman.

Youth soccer holding late registration

The Wilmington Youth Soccer Association will hold a late registration fee (in-town and travel) of an additional $20 per player after May 13 for Intown and Travel players. All first time registrants must supply a copy of their birth certificate.

The base registration fee for all players is $40 with a maximum base fee of $100 per family. The travel fee is $45 per layer in addition to the base fee. There is no family maximum for travel fees.

Travel players are registered at this time for both the fall and spring seasons. Travel tryout scheduled will be available at the time of registration.

In-town registrations received after June 5 will not be processed. They will be returned!

Travel registrations will not be accepted after the tryout dates.

The fall season is scheduled to run from September 12 through October 31. All games are on Saturdays.

The WYSA is run entirely by volunteers. One does not have to know how to play in order to help. After May 13, mail the form and a copy of the birth certificate and payment (including the fee) to Wilmington Youth Soccer, Box 107, Wilmington, MA 01887.

again as he was suppose to be about 90 percent permanently blind in that eye. But that didn't stop him from pitching, nothing does.

After battling back from that injury, he was a factor in the team's success in his senior year as a physical therapist major. During that season he was approached by a scout, who had contacted a few people looking for candidates to be this player/coach over in Holland.

Before McManus knew it, his coach, Neil McPhee, informed him that he was on the list, and immediately McManus wanted to be a part of this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

A few weeks later, the scout contacted him, Matt weighed his options talking it over with his family and friends, and decided to take the offer, vacating his days as a substitute teacher in Wilmington from March 31st to September 15th.

Baseball in Holland

Soccer is the major sport in Holland, however, the baseball competition is still pretty good. McManus compares his team DSS to the level of playing Division II Collegiate ball saying that Northeastern could beat his team 9-of-10 times. The team he plays on consists of players from 15-34 in age and it's the second highest level of ball in the country (equivalent to Triple A baseball in the States, name wise, but not talent wise).

Three of the players on his team are on the Dutch 18-under National team as well, who DSS was to be scrimmaging on Tuesday night. In August, those three players will be off to play in the World Championships.

As for McManus he is doing very well, despite the team being in a rebuilding stage. They lost six key players from last year's squad, and McManus' role has been quite demanding. Not only is he the team's go-to pitcher, but he is asked to be the team's pitching coach, helping the other younger pitchers along, as well as being the team's assistant coach, running practices and getting the knowledge and the intensity level to the core of younger and talented ballplayers.

"It started out difficult, but it has gotten easier. The ages of 15-34 is quite a difference and since I'm 24 it puts me right in the middle, in more ways than one. Obviously, I didn't want to act like an 'arrogant American' so I held back some things that I wanted to say at the beginning of the season.

"I've been very fortunate to have had a rewarding career at Northeastern and through these experiences, I'm trying to pass along all that I can to guys over here. They are not afforded the same opportunities that I've been exposed to in the states.

"Guys actually approach me now to ask for some help with certain aspects of the game. I enjoy doing this, especially since some of these guys are young enough for it to possibly make a difference in their baseball careers," he said.

Right now the team is 2-6 and they only play two games a week, one at home on Fridays and then they return the favor going to their opponents place the following day or two. Before the games begin on Friday, there are plenty of practices, scrimmages and instructions that McManus has pretty much everything to do with. Whether it's making line-up changes, or giving a tip or two, he has already had some experience of being a coach/manager.

The team has played eight games thus far and Matt's 1-3 with an impressive 2.31 E.R.A. He has tossed 35 innings, giving up 32 hits and 7 walks, while striking out 19 and picking off four runners. He has given up 19 runs, only 9 of them are earned.

"The team is very young. Our two middle infielders are 16 years old and we even have a 15-year-old on the team. These young guys are on the Dutch 18-under National Team, so they are physically good enough to play at this level, but mentally they have a long way to go," he said.

Obviously through his stats, McManus still has that powerful fastball and solid breaking ball that he has always had since his teenage years. He has continued his strikeout per inning stat that he has always had, so he can still bring it, no matter what brand of baseball and no matter what country he is in. And still, although his eye continues to get much better, he's still not 100 percent. That's pretty amazing.

Living conditions

McManus has an interesting way of describing the ways of living. He says it's like the "college life." With his agreement to go, he is being paid "a modest salary (similar to low minor leagues in the States)", as well as an apartment and a car - a black Volkswagon Golf. He has a roommate and the common necessities to live, (television, stereo, small kitchen, washing machine and microwave, etc.) and he is minutes away from the gym and beach, which makes him happy.

His organization, DSS is based in Haarlem, which has about 25,000 people in it and is about 12 miles west of the capital, Amsterdam. Six miles west of that, is "North Sea" where McManus resides. There are many canals throughout the city as people get around using cars, bicycles and boats. There are many little shops and open markets, selling everything from fresh produce to ceramics to flowers.

There are also a few familiar stores as well, McDonalds, Foot Locker and the Body Shop to name a few. That area, downtown, similarly compared to Downtown Crossing and Faneuil Hall in Boston, is about a 5-minute walk for McManus, who says that everyone rides bikes and not only does he have to watch out for them, but cars as well (apparently they don't drive trucks and their cars and streets are much smaller than in the U.S.).

It's not all play though

Part of his responsibilities include coaching some of the younger teams as well who are coming up in the organization. They don't have high school athletics, everyone joins a club, DSS for one example. The kids he coaches are from 8-13 and he is involved with three different groups. They get together for about 90 minutes or so Monday-through Thursdays.

Besides that, McManus also stays very busy earning new things in his professional field of physical therapy. Legally he can't work as a P.T. in the country, so he has taken an aid position, volunteering his time at a Rehabilitation/Therapy Hospital. He volunteers there a few hours a week as well.

"I didn't want to come over here and be away from what will become my career for sixth months, plus I wanted to see how they do things in their hospitals compared to the United States (things like therapy protocols, insurance reimbursement and training). It's worked out so far," he said.

Nothing's like a home-cooked meal

McManus says that is glad he made the decision to move to Holland for a half-of-a-year. He is very happy and enjoying what he is doing. But of course, living in a new country, meeting a lot of new people is a very hard adjustment, especially in the Supermarkets.

"When I first got here, I went to the store to stock up on a few things. I was at the cash register with bananas getting ready to pay. Unfortunately, you have to weigh them and get a price tag for them BEFORE you get in line. The cashier wasn't too happy with me, as were the eight people standing behind me who had to wait," he joked.

Besides adjusting to the ways of the supermarkets, there have also been some other tougher changes. "I really miss my family and friends, but I get to talk to them once in a while [through e-mail and the phone]. But, I surely miss my mother's cooking. The food over here is quite different. I think they live on coffee, bread and cheese over here. Of course, this is between cigarettes. Everyone smokes over here!

"They do have some familiar [food] dishes over here, but they're prepared differently. We ordered a large cheese pizza a couple of weeks ago from supposedly one of the better take-out places around. Are you kidding me? We are spoiled back home!

"The toughest thing over here has been the language barrier. Most people speak English (they are taught it in school starting at age 8) but not everyone does it frequently, so it's difficult at times. For the most part, everyone has been very welcoming and have made me feel comfortable."

Baseball after Holland?

Although it has been his dream ever since dominating on the little league diamond, McManus realizes that this, in all likelihood, is his last stop on the baseball train. He has taken a different approach with this new experience.

"I hate to lose at anything, but now that I'm older, I can appreciate things in a different way. It's too bad that we are 2-6, but I really enjoy helping out the younger kids and assisting in coaching my team. There are a few scouts over here, but obviously not nearly as many as we have back home.

But, I came over here to experience another part of the world for six months, have fun, and meet new people. And so far, it's been great."

Busy week for track teams

by Marcella Sweet
Sports Correspondent

It was a busy week for the Wilmington track teams as they ran in their last three league meets of the season, hosting Amesbury on Thursday, then heading to Masco for a Lynnfield/Masco tri-meet on Tuesday.

Boys Meet

Wilmington 66, Amesbury 79

Matt Kacamburas' best 2-mile was 10:22. Not any more. On Thursday, his 10:09 won the race and also gave him the best time in the league. "Matt ran winter track for the first time this year," said Coach Cripps, "and I think it's really helped him this spring. He's done very well this season."

TJ Flynn added to his team-leading point tally as he finished first in the 100 (11.59) and 400 (53.8), and was second in the Pole Vault. Both relay teams were winners in their events. The 4x100 team of Dan Bonnell, Mark DiGiovanni, Mike Carr, and Matt Minghella finishing in 47.2, while the 4x400 team of Dan Sweet, DiGiovanni, Christian Ferraro, and Carr won with a time of 3:53.44.

Also scoring: 300 Hurdles - Calway (2), 2-mile - DeGennaro (3), 100 Hurdles - Calway (2), Ferraro (3), 100 - Minghella (2), Mile - Meyers (3), 400 - Sweet (3), 800 - Kilburn (2), 200 - Bonnell (2), Graves (3), High Jump - Carr (2), Rappoli (3), Long Jump - Minghella (2), Triple Jump - Carr (3), Shot Put - Mather (2), Javelin - Moroney (2), Graves (3), Discus - Monteiro (3).

Girls Meet

Wilmington 68, Amesbury 75

Another close call for the girls, as they led in the running and jumping events. But Amesbury's lead in the throwing events - including a sweep of the Discus - proved to be the icing on the cake.

Lynnfield/Masco Tri-Meet

The need to make up a rained-out Lynnfield meet turned the regularly scheduled dual meet with Masco into a tri-meet - a tough way to face two good teams.

Wilmington 43, Masco 102

Wilmington 38, Masco 107

Laura Winn had no competition as she took two firsts in the 300 Hurdles with her best time of the season, 47.8. Kristin Flynn's throw of 27'6½" qualified her for States in the Shot Put. But two more team losses saw Wilmington's record drop to (0-10) for the season.

Dominant show Swiza throws a no-no in a "K" factor

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For as long as Dick Scanlon could remember, Friday's near perfect performance by Scott Swiezynski was the first one since Billerica's and current Atlanta Braves star pitcher Tom Glavine did it against them back in '84.

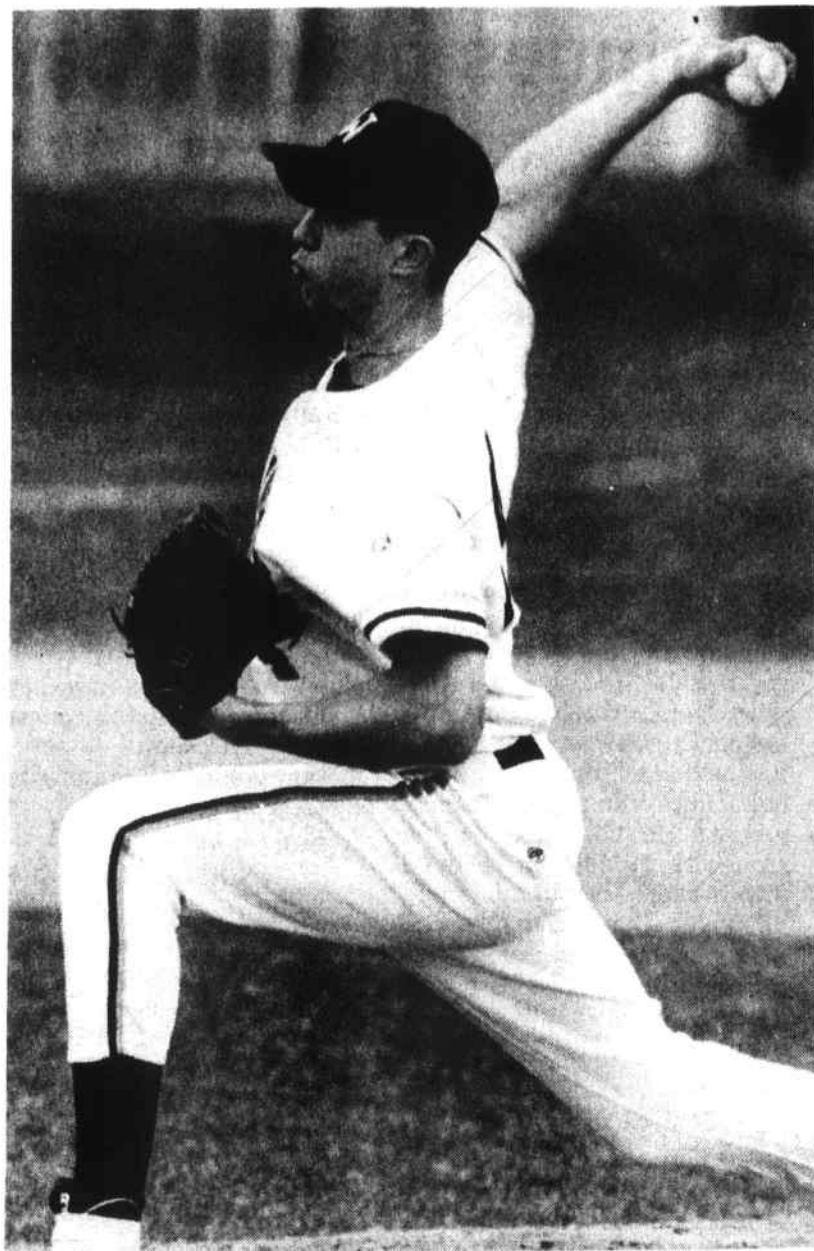

What Glavine did was pitch a no-hitter against Wilmington. Swiza did the same thing on Friday against Georgetown, striking out 15 including 9-of-the-first-12 batters. Only one batter reached first base and that came on a 3-2 pitch via walk in the bottom of the sixth.

"No doubt about it Scott dominated," said Scanlon. "I think on that day he would have done that against anyone. I would say he was throwing in the mid 80's, they were so far behind him. I mean he let a couple go and I mean it was coming."

Not only was Scott flawless, rearing back and throwing all fastballs but five curveballs and one knuckleball, but more impressively he has continued to be one of the better pitchers around in a league that is suppose to have three of the best around - and those three names have never been Scott Swiezynski. Perhaps all of that has changed.

"They are all different pitchers than I am," he said referring to Ben Crockett, Steve Lapham and Erik Drown. "I don't know someday you feel stronger and you feel yourself throwing harder than usual that you don't even feel your arm."

Scott proved that he had from the get-go striking out the first four Wilmington High senior Scott Swiezynski was unstoppable on Friday, tossing a no-hitter including striking out 15 Georgetown batters in the team's 6-0 win.

Georgetown batters to face him. After that was a groundout to first and a fly out to right, followed by three k's again in the bottom of the third. The top of fourth, Scott recorded the first out on a grounder to himself, and then he put the inning in his back pocket with two more strikeouts.

"I would say about the fourth or fifth inning I started to think about it. Everyone was joking saying that I better not mess up. But we really hit the ball and that helped out a lot."

Now with it on his mind, Scott had to concentrate even more. Wilmington was already ahead 6-0 so the game was basically his and basically done with him still unleashing those number ones while his long legs stretch across the bottom part of the hill.

Now in the fifth, all three batters made contact this time, all flyouts. The sixth, he struck out the seventh and eighth hitters before walking the ninth hitter on a close 3-2 call. He then struck out his second batter looking and twelfth in all to end the bottom of the sixth.

Then came in the exciting seventh - three more outs, nine strikes in all. A lot of pressure, huh? Nah...nine fastballs, three outs, three strikeouts, game over.

History was made. The celebration began.

Base running mistakes cost Wildcats a big win

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

In a very strange game, the Wilmington High baseball team let oneslip through their fingers thanks to some poor base running and a controversial play in the last inning.

With the score 3-2 in favor of North Andover, and runners at the corners with one out for the Cats in the home half of the seventh, head coach Dick Scanlon called for a designed running play. Already his team had swiped 4-of-5 bases, so clearly the call was a good one.

Tim Gillis stood at third and pinch runner Mike Heffernan was at first with Ryan Harrison up. Scanlon had Heffernan take off from first, on a delayed steal, Gillis edged off a few feet from the third base bag hoping that the throw would go through to second base trying to get Heffernan, who then would get in a rundown to allow Gillis to score. Well, the throw went back to the mound, no surprise there and the pitcher David Pybus tossed quickly to third, getting Gillis for the second out. Harrison fled out and that was the game.

"I thought he was safe," said Scanlon. "He didn't come off by much to begin with. I don't blame [Tim nor Mike] I thought they played it right. But [Tim's] foot was in - it was stretched onto the bag before the tag even hit his back. It was an irritating call. But the game wasn't lost there, it was lost in the early innings when we made those base running blunders."

That they did. In all Wilmington left eight runners on base, had one thrown out at the plate, one thrown out at second on a steal and one picked off at third on that play in the seventh. They out hit NA 10-7 and left six runners on in scoring position compared to the four NA left. It was Wilmington's game, but in the end it was NA who came out on top.

"We actually played a decent ball game. Paul [Fugere] had that one bad inning which he always had, but he pitched well, he really battled back and threw well in the last few innings. North Andover is a good team, I thought we out hit them, but they are a good team," Scanlon said.

The game was scoreless in the top of the third when NA struck for three runs on four hits and two walks - that was the one bad inning for Fugere who seems to be the hard luck guy falling to 1-5 on the season despite pitching much better than his record.

Wilmington managed a run in the bottom of the third but should have had more. Erik Banda led-off the inning getting hit by a pitch and he stole second. After an out, Tim Gillis singled him in. Dave DeAmato followed with a single too and two runners were aboard. Jim O'Donnell continued the hit streak with a hit to center, but Gillis was out at home by several steps.

The next inning Wilmington had a runner on first when Scott Swiezynski blooped one to right. It fell in, but the runner was forced at second, as he hesitated inbetween the bases. Banda and Grasso followed with walks, but they could not advance leaving three more runners on base.

Since the start of the fourth,

Fugere was superb, giving up just two hits in the last four innings and striking out two. He got some great defense from Grasso at short which helped, but he really cruised after his one tough inning.

Now in the bottom of the sixth, with one out, Matt Meuse walked and Jonathan Aprile ran for him, swiping second base. After the second out, Banda doubled in Aprile. Grasso followed with a sharp grounder to short that was recovered on a great dive and on the throw to first, Grasso was called out on a bang-bang play.

On Friday Wilmington played its first game in six days beating Georgetown 6-0 thanks to a no-hitter by Scott Swiezynski (see related story). Grasso, Gillis and Fugere were the big hitters combining for four hits and two RBI's.

Now at 8-4, Wilmington will have eight games in their next 14 days to finish out the regular season schedule with two more wins to clinch a tournament birth.

FENCE & HOME IMPROVEMENT

Tewksbury Squirt V's end season with a lot of hardware

The Tewksbury Squirt V team finished up its '97-'98 season with a bang! It will take a wheelbarrow to carry out the hardware presented to this great bunch of kids. First, they went undefeated in the T.Y.S.A. Holiday Tournament winning it all with a very impressive three wins and one tie.

In the Dual State League Squirt B South Division the team finished up in second place earning the runner up trophy compiling an impressive nine wins, six losses, and two ties in a league which was so competitive that the final top three teams could not be determined until the very last game on the schedule.

As if that wasn't exciting enough, over in the Merrimack Valley League Squirt Gold Central Division another evenly matched number of teams battled all year for the top spots with Tewksbury Squirt V's earning first place in regular season play with an outstanding record of 12 wins, 3 losses and 2 ties.

Earning the number one seed in the playoffs the Squirt V's had to face off against a very good Triton club who had played the Tewksbury Club tough all season. The squad setting its sights early in the season for a trip to the "Big Dance," put it all together for a 3-2 victory at Merrimack College. Eric Webb had three points in this one and Mike Giasullo and Jason Bucci added two points each to round out the scoring. Mike Tobin was excellent throughout, but was awesome in the final moments holding off a late game surge by Triton led by old friend Josh Ciampa now playing for Triton.

The tone set for this great team effort had to be credited to Jason Bucci whose inspirational play all over the ice picked up the entire club. Jason joined the club halfway through the season after a very long rehabilitation period and his courage and gutsy determination was symbolic of this team's character.

Speaking of teams, what a cast of characters. Early on, the makeup of this club was from kids who had never played organized hockey to several who had a year under their belts. The strategy from the beginning was to get to know one another, treat each other with respect as well as our opponents and officials. Top priority was to have fun while working hard and learning as we went along. If one was around this team for any amount of time early on, one could see they had championship qualities from the beginning. They never complained and they never surrendered even when down a couple of goals. They fought to the very end and it would be this type of determination that would set the final stage.

Forwards Jason Bucci, Mike Giasullo, Maura Kee, Steve Leighton, Shawn Olsten, Peter Stanieich, Mark Tozowski and Eric Webb all scored in double digits this year in addition to working the corners, backchecking and playing solid team hockey.

The defense of Justin Barry,

Christian Irving, Mike Kelly and Duron McKoy played solid throughout the year providing great coverage in our end while moving the puck up ice creating offensive opportunities. Each of these players also tallied double digits in the scoring department.

Starting the season were Mike Giasullo and Mike Tobin in goal. This tandem played phenomenally throughout the first three-quarters of the season earning several shutouts before Mike Giasullo decided on a career move to return up front leaving the sole responsibilities in net to Mike Tobin, who in addition to making some great saves also pitched in offensively with an assist from his goal position. It was a decision that paid huge dividends in the end.

Several individual awards were given this year. Shutout patches were earned by Mike Giasullo and Mike Tobin. Playmaker patches were given to Steve Leighton and Eric Webb. Hat trick patches went to Mike Giasullo, Duron McKoy and Peter Stanieich.

Thus, the final stage was set in the Merrimack Valley League Playoff Championship game against arch rival Masco led by another old Tewksbury friend now with Masco, Christian Zizza. On Saturday, April 18 at the Janas Rink before a packed house our own Madge Broderick started it off with perhaps her best and now famous rendition of our Star Spangled Banner. The game that played that morning was something that anybody present will remember for a lifetime. Both teams battled shift for shift. Up and down the ice, posts were hit, breakaways were stopped and great passing, forechecking and backchecking were played until at the end of regulation time the score was 0-0. Only one penalty per side had been called the entire game.

A five minute sudden death format began with the same reckless abandon. Mike Tobin in goal was beyond belief with his efforts. The defense of Justin Barry, Christian Irving, Mike Kelly and Duron McKoy smothered the Masco offense time and time again. Forwards Jason Bucci, Mike Giasullo, Maura Kee, Steve Leighton, Shawn Olsten, Peter Stanieich, Mark Tozowski and Eric Webb kept pounding away in the Masco end. There was no pressure, this was fun and what they had worked so hard for all season. It could have been anybody's game the way both teams were playing, but somehow you could sense that the Tewksbury Squirt V's were not going to be denied.

After 39 minutes of scoreless hockey with 1:55 left in sudden death overtime a loose puck popped out of the crowd in the Tewksbury end and was picked up by Eric Webb who raced down the ice and let a blistering shot go which was saved by the Masco goalie. Webb, Tewksbury's leading scorer this year with 70 points, pounced on his own rebound and drove it home for the only score of the game and the

The Tewksbury Squirt V youth hockey team finished their season very strong taking home several big trophies.

Valley League playoff championship for Tewksbury. The crowd roared and cheered on both clubs for the show that they had put on. Senior referee in charge Dina DiMartino, a seasoned veteran of many games called it one of the best hockey games and overall efforts by both teams he had ever seen at any level.

A fitting finish to an outstanding season by a great bunch of kids. Their accomplishments wouldn't have been possible without the support given by parents, brothers, sisters and grandparents. Special thanks to coaches John Barry, Ellen Kee and Gary Stanieich. Thanks also to Judy Barry for her team reporting and great articles. Tewksbury Welding President Don MacLaren's generosity only added class to an already distinguished group. To our number one fan we hope we provided a little bit of sunshine. It truly was a team effort!

Wilmington little league

Kenny Luongo ends game with a walk-off 3-run homer for A's

Major League Baseball
A's 8 Tigers 7

It was Little League Baseball at its absolute best! With the A's down 7-5, bottom of the sixth inning, two outs, runners at second and third and a two-and-two count to the A's, Kenny Luongo, he lined the next pitch over the left field fence for the dramatic victory for the A's over a tough Tiger Team.

The game was well played by both teams. The Tigers jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first, but the A's answered with five of their own in the bottom frame. The Tigers pounded out consecutive hits by Riccio, Concannon and Gill to go ahead 7-5.

Then came the drama, with one out in the bottom of the sixth, Derek Montalto singled, Billy Nee grounded out, Jon Stark singled then stole second. Then on the two-and-two pitch, Kenny Luongo belted wht baseball writers now call a three-run walk-off homerun for the A's 8-7 win.

The well coached Tiger stars included Oliveri and Concannon with two hits apiece; Gill with a big triple, Riccio and Matt David with key hits. Matt David hurled five great innings and made great play after great play from the mound.

A's 10 Orioles 2

Big hitters for the A's included the always on base Billy Nee, one hit and two runs scored; Derek Montalto a big double and Ken Luongo and Steve Iorio chipping in with key hits.

The star of the game, without question was the A's 10-year-old Matty Hogg. With the bases full or Orioles in the top of the first and two outs, the Birds Brandon Kelley hit a long drive to right center field. Center fielder Matt Hogg, running full speed then diving fully outstretched, made the spectacular catch and the A's escaped unscathed. Hogg also doubled home what proved to be the winning runs as the A's scored eight runs in the first two innings and propelled them to a 10-2 victory over a very talented Oriole team.

Kevin Pizzotti started for the Orioles and threw very well. Oriole hitters included Louis Insalaco with two and Gillis and Phillips with one apiece.

White Sox 11 Twins 1

The White Sox got great pitching, offense and defense to stop the undefeated Twins.

The pitching was supplied by K. Mike Kelley, going six innings, striking out 15, walking four and allowing only one hit and one run.

The offense was led by Matt Brander, who went 3-for-3 including a mammoth two-run homer. Others contributing to the offense were Kelley (two hits), Chris Dell'anno (two hits), Jon Danciewicz, and Jordan Weiner.

The defense contributed a double play started by E. David Celi at third. Derek Trueira got the lone Twins hit, leading off the fifth inning. He also pitched three strong innings of relief.

White Sox 3 Orioles 3

After seven great innings of baseball, this game was suspended because of darkness.

The Orioles tied the game in the top of the sixth with a single by Bobby Sinopoli, and some daring base running.

Lou Insalaco and Sinopoli combined to pitch a great game striking out 17 Sox, walking five and allowing only five hits. Lou also made the defensive play of the game, with a great diving catch in center field as the Sox had the winning run on third base in the top of the seventh.

Jon Danciewicz (six k's-two innings) Matt Brander (2k's, in one inning) and Mike Kelley (10K's in four innings) pitched well for the Sox as they allowed only two Oriole hits (to Sinopoli). The Sox offense came from Kelley (two hits), Brander, Kyle Brown and Jesse Cammaratta.

Farm League

Pirates 13 Rangers 13

The Pirates and Rangers played to a 13-13 tie at the Glen Road. The Pirates' standouts were Bobby Donoghue who had a tremendous game catching. Steve Crow battled at bat fouling off several pitches before doubling to left field. Brian Kelly and Michael Barry provided key fielding plays to help the Pirates to the 13-13 tie.

The Rangers had a balanced attack. Matthew Derian had a great day at the plate. Jim Frackleton provided quick base running. Greg Good played a solid game behind the plate. Jerry Smith provided hitting power to all fields.

Senior League

Dodgers 8 Braves 7

This game belonged to the Dodgers' Dave Truiera who was throwing his fastball past almost every Brave hitter except Josh Howlett who managed three hits in this very exciting, yet interesting and controversial game.

Truiera struck out 16 Braves batters and led 8-4 going to the bottom of the seventh when he began to tire, as well as the Braves mounting another late inning comeback. With three runs in and runners at second and third and two out, the Braves decided to roll the dice, trying a suicide squeeze, but that didn't work successfully as Truiera bounced off the mound quickly and threw out Kyle Burns who put down a nice bunt.

For the Dodgers, Jason Hassey played well defensively, and for the Braves, Howlett had three hits, while, Brian Roberts pitched another brilliant game, with the score not indicating his performance, whatsoever. Ryan Pilcher also played well all-around for the Braves as did Mike Maloney.

Girls 8-9 year-old softball
Kiwanis Club Astros vs
Zeneca Resin Royals

The Astros and Royals opened their seasons Saturday in an offensive showdown as both teams came out swinging the bats impressively. Hitting stars for the Royals were Brittany McLarenan, Kaitlyn Kerins, Amy Sinclair and Britanni Winn; while the Astros were powered by Nicole Bradley, Lauren Hitchins, Ashley Marchesi, and Lynn Olsen.

Fine defensive plays were turned in by Kim Ciampa, Alyssa Hanley and Brianna Nicolo of the Astros, as well as Leah DeNatale, Michelle St. Aubin and Maggie Sorrentino of the Royals.

Marlins 10 Brewers 7

In the opening game of the softball season, the Marlins sponsored by Town Market Citgo defeated the Townsend Welding Brewers by a close score of 10-7.

Both teams played well for the first game of the season. The Marlins were led defensively by the super pitching of Gina Ranno who pitched the complete game. Tricia Fennelly and Amanda Dacko did a fine job sharing the catcher's position. Charlene Smith made a great catch in center field to help the Marlins win.

Pitching well for the Brewers was Caitlin Foley, who kept the Marlins scoreless in the last three innings. Lani Cabral-Pini helped the Brewers defensively in the field by making key plays in the field, while Julie Martell caught a great game.

Hitting well for the Marlins was Tricia Fennelly, who had two rbis, Lauren Cushing and Michaela Rousseaux who scored one of the Marlins runs. The Brewers were led offensively by the bats of Lauren McGonagle, who had two hits, Lauren Rappoli who went 2-for-2 and Laura Christenson.

Cubs 14 Marlins 13

In a close game, the Cubs, sponsored by the Rotary Club defeated the Marlins, sponsored by Town Market Citgo. Both teams played well. The Cubs were led to victory by strong pitching from Erin Cahill, who pitched a complete game. Megan Hand did an excellent job as catcher. Kaitlin Harris played a strong defensive game.

Gina Ranno pitched a fine game for the Marlins. Playing well in the field were Jackie Moran at second base, Tricia Fennelly at first base and Jessica Ham in left center field.

The Marlins bats came alive in the game with awesome hits by Stefanie Gable, who had a bases loaded double, Gina Ranno and Lauren Cushing, who both hit homeruns for the Marlins and Michaela Rousseaux, with a nice hit to keep the Marlins in the game.

For the Cubs, Margie Taylor went 2-for-2, scoring twice and driving in several runs. Erica Layton also had a strong game offensively for the Cubs, while Alicia Murray scored the game winning run.

*Thank you little league managers who supplied the game results this week, much better than the previous weeks. It's great to see so many little leaguers efforts be recorded every week. Of course with all of the rain gone now, we can expect more results, right? Fax them here by Monday at 5 pm at 658-2266, thanks [sp, ed].

Wilmington girls under 11A youth soccer team faces some tough competition

The Wilmington girls under 11A youth soccer team met up with powerful opponents and came away with losses in two recent matches.

On April 25, away from home, Woburn defeated the Lady Wildcats, 2-0. Wilmington met with a similar fate when Stoneham handed them a 3-0 defeat on May 5. At mid-season, this team's record stands at 1-3-1. The record belies the effort the girls have put forth, with their effective passing strategy and nearly impenetrable defense. With each game the team has strengthened its shooting and become more aggressive to match opponents.

The Stoneham and Woburn games demonstrated thsi growing confidence. Conflicting styles were at play; Wilmington mounted a patient passing attack while Stoneham and Woburn capitalized on size and strength, with the long ball strategy prevailing. The Woburn match saw Wilmington exhibit a better passing game and more shots on goal. During the Stoneham contest, Wilmington had more possession, shots an corner kicks. Defense was superb in stopping the opponents' long ball passes to swift wings.

In the Woburn game, Kelly Crosby and Amy McHale stopped the opponents cold on many an attack. Jackie Rideout consistently blew through Woburn's defense, challenging all comers. Celine DeMaggio, Caitlin Foley, Sarah McGowen and Teresa DeSimone demonstrated great teamwork and fine passing skills.

In the Stoneham match, Jessica Alosco, Bridget Kent and Debbie Lyons hustled for the best scoring opportunities, finding space and making several breakaways. Caitlin McNabb, Krystina Smith, and Julia Leverone continually held off multiple scoring attempts. Keeper Alicia Braid continues great net minding.

The anglers having the highest cumulative weight for the two days will advance. The 10 finalists will compete on Saturday, with previous weight totals carrying over. The angler ending up with the heaviest total weight of the three days will be named the winner. Each finalist will be paired with a camera crew from ESPN 2. ESPN 2 is filming the championship and will produce a one-hour special that will air November 8, 1998, at 10:00 a.m. EST.

The 50 anglers qualified for the prestigious bass championship by competing in one day, divisional qualifying tournaments during the 1997 season and finishing in the top 30, based on a system of points and pounds. The anglers then competed in one of five, two-day Red Man regional championships against the top 30 anglers from three other divisions for one of only eight berths, per regional, available in the Red Man All-American Championship. Two other regionals, the Western and Wild Card, sent four and six representatives respectively.

The Red Man All-American is the culmination of 132 one day qualifying tournaments and several regional championships. It is the most difficult event to qualify for in competitive fishing. More than 25,000 bass fishermen attempted to qualify for the renowned tournament in 1997.

MAKING YOUR OFFER

When you find the right home, what can you do to maximize your chances of actually getting it? The first step you should take is to make a prompt offer.

Whether you are in a buyers' or sellers' market, taking too much time to initiate an offer can cost you money, especially if you are planning to offer less than the asking price or are asking for special terms. If your offer is the only one on the table, the sellers will consider it, and if they don't accept it, they may make a good counter offer. While you are "sleeping on it", however, you risk the possibility of another offer coming in. If another buyer appears on the scene, you lose an important advantage if you and the sellers are going back and forth with offers and counter offers. If you really want that special house, make the best offer you can—as quickly as possible.

And the winners are

Over 400 entries were mailed in for the third annual Middlesex East Favorite Photo Contest, the largest number ever entered. Not only was the quantity the most ever, the quality also was truly outstanding.

The judges had tremendous difficulty in arriving at winners but they did their job and the results are:

FIRST PLACE

The overall first place winner was submitted by Jerry White of Woburn and that's her grand daughter Madison Noelle White to the left of this story. Isn't she something special?

Mrs. White will receive $100 for her first place finish.

Madison was 6 months old when the photo was taken and it was taken on an island in her backyard in the South Pacific, Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands.

FIRST PLACE 18 & UNDER

The first place photo in the 18 and under age category was taken by Julie Jamgochian of Reading.

The photo appears on the back of this section and is in black and white. It depicts a girl in an inner-city environment sitting on a doorstep with all kinds of graffiti and painting on the building. She will receive $100 for the winning entry.

SECOND PLACE

was of a very colorful Monarch butterfly landing on a flower.

The photo was taken in Kennebunk, Maine in October 1997 and appears on the back of this section.

For winning second place Dianne will receive $75.

THIRD PLACE

Our final winner was for third place in the overall judging and it goes to Christopher Lucas of Reading for his photo taken in London, England capturing a small child and a street actor that looks almost unreal. It had appeared in an earlier publication of Middlesex East as an example of the quality of entry in the contest.

For winning third place Christopher will win $50.

Because of the tremendous quality of the photos it was decided to give out numerous Honorable Mention Awards. Each will receive a Middlesex East Travel Mug when they pick up their photos. The list includes in alphabetical order.

Spring Scramble Golf Tournament in Wilmington

The mild winter of 1997/98 has allowed golf courses to open earlier than usual, prompting many golfers to "hit the links" sooner than they expected. Golfers will have plenty of time to get their swing ready for the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce's Spring Scramble Golf Tournament scheduled to be held on Monday, June 8th at the Colonial Hilton Resort in Lynnfield.

The tournament begins with a continental breakfast, and a shotgun start at 7:30 am, followed by a Texas-style barbecue and awards ceremony.

Play is limited to 144 golfers. The $129 individual package includes a continental breakfast, greens and cart fees, the barbeque, awards ceremony, gift bag, and a hole-in-one contest to win a car. Foursomes are also welcome at a cost of $516 per foursome.

To help make the tournament a resounding success, several businesses will participate in the tournament as a Gold, Silver or Bronze Sponsor. They include Gold Sponsor, Zeneca Resins; Silver Sponsors, Audax of America, BankBoston, Genetics Center, and Bronze Sponsor, AMETEK Aerospace.

Any individual or business who would like to become a Tee Sponsor is asked to contact Tournament coordinator Gary Cooper at Fred F. Cain Inc. 978-658-3385.

Anyone interested in golfing in the tournament can contact Sandy Murphy at the Chamber 978-657-7211.

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

So...What's moo?

The cattle trail in Tewksbury

"Ah, freedom! For Donna the Cow it must have been nice for the past six months, but her freedom came to an abrupt end..." notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"For six months, the 450 pound white Angus and Chalet mix did as she pleased. She was spotted many times, usually in the area of Tewksbury Metals, Inc., a scrap metal operation on East Street. According to Laura Wellman of the Animal Rescue League of Boston, 'we were actually out there seventeen times.'

"Finally, Officer William Schwalb spotted Donna while patrolling the East Street area. He radioed for help and members of the Animal Rescue League of Boston arrived shortly. Lieutenant Allen Borgal and quarantine agent Rigaud Lee were forced to use two tranquilizer darts to pull Donna down. Upon her capture she was taken to Tufts University School of Veterinary Medicine in Grafton for treatment and observation.

"According to Wellman,

Donna fared rather well on her own. 'She is doing pretty well. She is not severely underweight and suffered only minor scrapes and bruises. We certainly were concerned about her being free out there. An animal of that size could cause a severe car accident.'

"Donna will not be returning to Krochmal Farm. A spokesperson from the farm said, 'they had no use for her there anymore. Our use for her was in the fall. Not for now.' Krochmal Farms at this point is not sure of Donna's destination. The Animal Rescue League said she was being shipped to Pennsylvania, however the spokesperson from the farm said that was untrue."

The name game in Burlington

"The 'Lahey Clinic' name has been restored; the 75th Anniversary of the hospital is being celebrated; and there's a commitment to excellence in medicine made," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The hierarchy of the Lahey

Clinic, including CEO Dr. John Libertino, along with state and town officials, greeted hundreds of guests in the cafeteria of the Lahey Clinic to celebrate the events.

"We still have that compelling vision," said Dr. Libertino, referring to the legacy of Dr. Frank Lahey, who turned medicine into a teamwork approach, along with research and a medical mission.

"There is still that close relationship," stated Dr. Libertino, between doctors, patients, the staff and communities it serves. "And, I think we have the best health care model there is for the future."

"Burlington Board of Selectmen Chairman Gary Gianino, echoed the sentiments of the community, noting his own personal relationship with the Lahey Clinic, and town's role since it first proposed to come to Burlington in 1971.

"Burlington has been home to you since 1980 and you have been a great partner," said Gianino.

"To many, he said, when you say Burlington, 'it's not the Burlington Mall, but the Lahey Clinic of which they think'

"Lahey Clinic, he pointed out, is the largest employer of Burlington residents (360) 'and has been a great corporate citizen.'"

Signs of the times in Woburn

"Interest in the Woburn Redevelopment Authority's sign rebate program is picking up as several store owners in the center have filed for assistance," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Under the program, store owners can receive a rebate of 50 percent, up to $500 from the WRA for their new signs, as long as they pass muster with the new Sign Review Board.

"The program was implemented at the request of WRA Executive Director Donald Borchelt after hearing of frustrations from Sign Review Board members that efforts to improve the appearance of the center were slow...."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. My Uncle John Shea believed in, "do unto others before they do it to you."

My nephew Dennis Tully

sings this way in school, "My Country 'tis of thee, sweet land of, "Lipton Tea" of thee I sing."

His brother Kevin was kept after school because he didn't know where the Azores were. His father Danny told him, "O'kay this time Kevin but, from now on, remember where you put things!"

Folks, have you noticed that usually, an out of shape dog has an out of shape owner holding on to the other end of the Leash?

An old termite was having a very difficult time on a mahogany bar at Reardon's. It noticed a group of termites apparently having an easier time on the other end of the bar. So, it "Waddled" down to them and asked, "Pardon me, is the, "Bar-tender" here?"

My cousin Angelo Quaganti is a painter who adds water to the latex paint so that it will cover "more" area. Last night in a dream, a voice said to him, "Repaint you Sinner and "THIN" no more."

Well folks, Spring is finally here and it's time to plant the vegetable garden. My sister Maureen sent a letter to her run-a-way husband Dan saying, "Please come home Dan. The kids miss you, The dog misses you and even the garden will need a "WORM" Like YOU."

The psychiatrist told Blackie Vega, "Stop Smoking." "Why," Blackie asked, "is it bad for me?" "Who the heck cares," the headshrinker shouted, "Look you Idiot, you're burning a "HOLE" in my Couch!!!"

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

BURLINGTON'S LIAM GOVOSTES (a Senior All-American) took first place in the 400 meter hurdles, while TEWKSBURY'S TOM KEATING (a senior) took the pole vault event.

SPORTS SHORTS

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: The 1936 New York Yankees had five players with over 100 runs batted in each. Who are they? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

READING'S JEFF BOUCHER scored his first career goal as a member of the Nichols College lacrosse team in his final game against Salve Regina.

Junior RICK SMITH OF WOBURN leads the Nichols College baseball team with 24 RBI and is tied for second with 22 runs scored. He's batting .380 and has a 2-0 record on the mound.

The TEWKSBURY HIGH SCHOOL TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY TEAMS are holding the third annual "RUN A PLEASANT MILE" ROAD RACE on Pleasant Street in Tewksbury on Sunday, May 17 from 9-11:30 am.

The purpose of the race is to raise funds for the McGadden Scholarship Fund, which provides money to assist college-bound seniors who are among the over 200 students participating in the track programs. The course is just one mile, which should enable participation from a wide range of folks.

Last year there were several raffles at the race, and more are included this year. For more information call Pat Takach at 978-851-4770 or Rita and Charles LaBella at 978-851-5877.

Need a clue or two to help solve the trivia mystery? One player was Joe DiMaggio, who had 125 runs batted in.

WILMINGTON'S MIKE ALONARDO, a senior on the UMass-Lowell baseball team, was named the NECC Pitcher of the Week recently. At the time he carried a 3-0 record with a 2.86 ERA.

TEWKSBURY'S PAMELA MCNEIL, a sophomore on the UMass-Lowell softball team, is hitting .367 and has 16 steals in 17 attempts.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The players were Lou Gehrig, with 152 RBI; DiMaggio with 125; Tony Lazzeri with 109; Bill Dickey with 107; and George Selkirk, with 107. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Items can also be faxed at 781-942-0884.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Come September...

Numbers in North Reading

"Kindergarten registration was recently completed and the numbers have come in pretty much as school officials had expected, at least for the time being," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Superintendent Dr. David Troughton said that a total of 209 Kindergarten students have already registered for the 1998-1999 school year, just two shy of the 211 that had been projected."

"Kindergarten registration at the Batchelder, Little and Hood Schools was completed by early March."

"By school, the numbers of students registered break down as follows: Batchelder, 67; Little, 74; and Hood, 68."

"Class enrollments have been consistently hitting the 200 mark in recent years, in sharp contrast with this year's 128-member graduating class...."

September in Stoneham

"With Labor Day falling later than usual this September, the calendar for the Stoneham Public Schools will be altered slightly for the 1998-1999 school year," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"By a unanimous vote of the School Committee, the academic year will commence before the Labor Day holiday, digressing from tradition, for this year only."

"Students in grades 1-12 will begin school on Wednesday, September 2. Their second day of school will be Thursday, September 3, followed by a four-day holiday weekend, with return to school on Tuesday, September 8."

"To accommodate this earlier opening, teachers will begin their school year by reporting to work on August 31."

"While students attend school for 180 days, the state mandates scheduling of 185 days of school each academic year to accommodate off-days, due to snow, etc."

"If the traditional opening after Labor Day was instituted for the coming school year, students might still find themselves in class 185 days later on June 29."

"With the earlier opening in September, school will be scheduled until June 22. However, without the use of any snow days, the school year could end by June 15."

"Kindergarten classes do not follow the same schedule and will open the following week in September."

Watercolor to be auctioned

The original watercolor pictured above has been donated for auction to the Old South United Methodist Church public benefit auction which will take place this Saturday morning, May 16 at 10 am. Painted by renowned artist Taddeus Klodnicki, A.W.S., it is a portrait of the Old South Church on Reading Common.

Mr. Klodnicki was born in Poland, studied Fine Arts in Poland, Germany, and in this country with John Chetcuti of Rockport. His exhibits in Poland, Germany and U.S. have won several awards. His work has been represented in one-man shows in New York, Boston, Rockport, Cape Cod and elsewhere; and in private collections from New England to California.

A member of the American Artists' Professional League, Copley Society, Rockport, North Shore, Concord and Reading (charter member) Art Associations, the late artist maintained a studio in Reading. Mr. Klodnicki also received the distinguished national designation of being a member of the American Watercolor Society (A.W.S.), headquartered in New York City.

Many other items have been donated for this auction, including antiques, furniture and collectibles. Another item of note to be auctioned is an autographed hardcover copy of the book, "Muggie Maggie," by Newbery medalist children's author Beverly Cleary.

Old South Church is located at 6 Salem St., at the head of Reading Common.

Preview begins at 8:30 am, with the auction beginning at 10 am. Food will be available for sale, and there is no admission charge.

For more than 30 years, Austin Prep's goal has been to provide its students the opportunity to develop independent minds capable of thinking and judging with reason; to develop an appreciation for the cultural values of life; and to develop their character so they will act with principle. All of this in a Catholic environment that stimulates the intellectual talents that God has given them.

So, as we enter a new millennium—one where technology and computers are an integral part—Austin Prep's goals won't change...

Only the means by which we accomplish them.

Phase two opens in North Reading

Come tour the Majestic MacIntyres

Among the most prized gifts obtained with success are a feeling of peace and tranquility.

Today's busy lifestyles make obtaining these states of mind ever more difficult. Your home truly can become an oasis from daily hustle and bustle when you live in MacIntyre Crossing.

Located in North Reading and within a half hour drive to Boston, some of the finest acre lots in the entire area are found.

Habitech, Inc., proudly introduces Phase II of MacIntyre Crossing. Celebrating their 12th year of development prowess with communities such as Harold Park Estates and Forest Park Estates, Habitech is enjoying unparalleled success.

"The recreation area includes a tot park and pool", enhancing the community aspect.

Habitech's President, Brian Ahern believes that MacIntyre Crossing is destined to be one of the most desirable communities of all. MacIntyre according to Ahern, offers "room to grow within a peaceful, tranquil and well planned community."

In addition, the recreation area which includes a tot park and pool enhances the community aspects and offers a chance for the busy homeowner to relax and let others do the work. These are just a few of the reasons for the community's immediate success.

Seventy six homesites will comprise this development with 40 acres of open space. The home designs themselves also blend with the environment and surroundings, affording a juxtaposition within the community.

Majestic colonial style homes which range from 3,000 square feet begin at $479,900. With Habitech, the key to success is personal "customization" to your home. "We will work with you every step of the way to insure satisfaction and pride of ownership in your new home," says Bruce Wheeler, vice president of Habitech.

Although a myriad of plans many houses may be sold before they have been fully exposed. Such houses are sold without the substantial benefit provided by a Multiple Listing Service (MLS). This may result in a lower final sales price. How can you know that the price you obtain represents the best possible price the market would deliver if all the buyers in the market are not given a chance to see it?

Suffredini continues, "In competitive markets, houses that have full exposure through a Multiple Listing Service frequently receive multiple offers, many times exceeding the asking price. Also helpful is utilization of Home Marketing Systems and Offer Management Systems. Both are designed to give a seller the maximum benefit, while allowing all buyers to

Local real estate market is primed for buyer and seller

WOBURN - "The local real estate market has never been more favorable for home buying and selling. The combination of prevailing factors in our market place presents a rare and unique opportunity for those who want to purchase or sell a residential property."

That's the view of Paula Suffredini, a local real estate professional who has been serving the needs of property buyers and sellers in the Woburn, Burlington, and Stoneham area for the past 12 years. She manages CARLSON REAL ESTATE/Better Homes & Gardens, a leading real estate brokerage firm in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

"Our local market has experienced quite an evolution in recent years," Suffredini says. "With affordability better than ever and interest rates low, many families who have been holding off on a home purchase - first time buyers and move-up buyers - are deciding this is the time to take action. Homeowners who need to sell their residence are finding an active market environment for the productive selling program."

Key factors driving the current real estate activity are (1) low mortgage interest rates, (2) an abundance of available mortgage funds, and (3) new tax laws that are favorable to home buyers and sellers. "While we are enjoying a particularly active market, it's also a time of unprecedented complexity. There are more elements in a home sale transaction that must be understood than ever before, and more options that call for important long-term decisions."

Further, noted Suffredini, "One program is a highly effective referral and relocation service, helping local people relocate to new communities and generating more prospective buyers for homes in this area. Being a member of this international network has been a major factor in helping our firm become a real estate brokerage leader in New England."

Although selling a house under current market conditions often results in a quick sale,
